

Homeopathy's role and value to address antimicrobial resistance

ECH – SSH Conference

Friday 15 November 2019 – Hotel Novotel Paris Tour Eiffel – 61 Quai de Grenelle 75015
Paris

8.00 – 9.00	Registration
9.00 – 10.30	Dr H�l�ne Renoux – ECH President – Introduction of the day Political addresses – WHO representative - Member of the European Parliament Prof Leoni Bonamin – Paulista University (Sao Paulo) - Homeopathy and experimental infections: in vivo and in vitro experiments with bacteria, fungi and protozoan
10.30 – 11.00	Coffee Break
11.00 – 12.30	Prof Jennifer Jacobs – University of Washington - Homeopathy: An Alternative to Antibiotics for Childhood Infections Prof Francesco Macri – La Sapienza University (Rome) - Homeopathy and antibiotic resistance – data collected from Italian working groups
12.30 – 14.00	Lunch (press conference 12h30/ 13h15)
14.00 – 15.30	Dr Liesbeth Ellinger – The Netherlands - Antimicrobial resistance in production animals. Can homeopathy offer solutions? Dr Lex Rutten – The Netherlands - Homeopathy instead of antibiotics in respiratory tract infections: certainly less harmful, probably more effective
15.30 – 16.00	Coffee Break
16.00 – 18.00	Dr Katharina Gaertner – Wisshom – Antibiotic use in clinical studies on homeopathy – a systematic review Dr Bernard Poitevin – SSH – Silicea as a complement to antibiotics – Critical reading of the HAS report on homeopathic medicinal products' efficacy in human care Dr H�l�ne Renoux - Conclusion

More information and registration: astrid@medicongress.com